The Department offers a CSWE-accredited Bachelor of Social Work degree and two interdisciplinary minors: Nonprofit Studies and Family Studies (with dual foci in family ecology and gerontology). In addition, our program collaborates with the Department of Justice Studies in the College of Arts and Letters on a Youth Justice minor.

We are a diverse, student-centered faculty with a strong commitment to respectful and supportive collegiality. We are especially interested in qualified candidates with a demonstrated commitment to building equitable and inclusive environments. Join us in achieving our goal of continuing to grow as a diverse college that embodies an atmosphere of belonging.

Duties and Responsibilities: Full-time instructional faculty on the tenure track are responsible for teaching, research, and service. Target starting date is August 2025.

Qualifications: Candidates must possess an MSW from a CSWE-accredited social work program (or equivalent for international programs), a minimum two years (24 months) of post-MSW agency-based practice, and a DSW, PhD or other doctoral degree related to social work. ABD candidates with conferral of degree prior to August 1, 2025 may be considered. Rank and appointment will be commensurate with experience and qualifications. A more extensive record of scholarship, teaching, and service is required for appointment at the Associate Professor rank.

In support of BSW program needs and to support the departmental minor in Family Studies, candidates with experience teaching across multiple curricular areas at the undergraduate level with micro practice and expertise in family systems are preferred.

Additional consideration is given to candidates with experience in the nonprofit sector in support of the department's Nonprofit Studies Minor.
